A 'Gulvvase' for Holmegaard

Sold

REF: 1484

Height: 26 cm (10.2")

Description

A 'Gulvase' or floor standing vase, designed by Otto Brauer for Holmegaard, in pale blue glass over an opaque interior.

The Holmegaard Glass factory was built in 1825, founded by Countess Henriette Danneskiold-Samsøe. They made glass bottles at first, and then branched out into tableware in the 1830's. Holmegaard glass are probably best known for Michael Bang's Palet range (1968 - 1975), Per Lutken's Carnaby glass designs from 1968, and of course Otto Brauer's Gulvase design in 1962.
